How would my company benefit from hosting with Random Digit?

With ever-increasing demands for businesses to have modern, functional and user friendly websites and the growing costs of employing in-house web server administrators, webmasters and Database DBA's, we at Random Digit believe we can offer a cost effective alternative to this expensive scenario.

Our team of motivated industry professionals, many from contracting backgrounds, are experienced and used to working on all types of server and software configurations from differing industry sectors. We have the expertise to cover all industry technologies currently in use and our commitment to ongoing training in the latest techniques and technologies helps keep us ahead of our game and provide you with a service that's second to none.

What expectations should we have?

Expectations are sometimes hard to define, but we believe they should be clear and simple at all times. Should you have any problem with your website call our dedicated 24/7 support team and they will diagnose the fault and were possible provide a fix.

Random Digit backup all hosted websites were required absolutely free to dedicated servers on a different continental shelf. This provides you will a fault tolerate service which can be recovered from within two hours should the worst ever happen. We can also provide staggered backups of data and files to provide a level of data rollback.

How does it work?

We place you website on a test server to determine the required recourses, once we have agreed the level of hosting required and the frequency of any backups we can move your application to a live environment.

What will it cost us?

Due the complexity of individual businesses websites its not practical to detail prices, but for a simple example we charge £96 per year for a shared server hosting no more than 50 other websites with Windows Server 2008 running SQL Server 2008, IIS and SMTP. SQL Server databases start at £226 per year.
